Material in the Dyslexia collection

Beginner readers

The beginner readers selection includes a wide variety of phonics and decodable readers in Dyslexic Friendly format. Decodable readers are an essential tool for the dyslexic learner that encourage sounding out words using phonic decoding strategies rather than guessing from pictures or predicting from other cues which is often difficult for children with Dyslexia. These books:

- use simple patterns
- introduce 1 or 2 concepts at a time
- are 100% decodable meaning the reader can break down every word in the book to help build reading confidence and enjoyment.

Dyslexic-friendly catch-up readers

Engaging stories designed for upper primary and teen readers who still require support with their phonics skills. With dyslexic friendly formatting, they also feature:

- age-appropriate storylines
- short chapters
- vocabulary and phonics practice pages and further learning suggestions.

Dyslexic-friendly Hi-Lo readers

Engaging stories for older children and teens written at a lower reading level, perfect for building literacy while maintaining interest.They commonly feature:

- simple sentences
- controlled vocabulary
- lower page counts
- short chapters

Junior fiction / Young adult fiction / Adult fiction

A selection of junior, teen, and adult fiction presented in accessible formats designed to reduce reading fatigue and support comprehension. Young Adult fiction also contains Hi-Lo chapter books for teens with similar attributes to the Hi-Lo readers.

Adult non-fiction

Current titles designed to offer support in understanding and managing Dyslexia including:

- What is dyslexia and how is it assessed?
- Parenting children with dyslexia
- Learning and teaching resources for children with dyslexia
- Academic study skills, revision & assessment guides for high school / university students with dyslexia
- Self-help books for adults with dyslexia with strategies to help with all areas of daily living.
